The property is located in the village of Clutton which is almost equidistant to Whitchurch, Chester and Wrexham. There is a primary less than 100 metres up the road and a number of excellent secondary schools in the area. The ancient village of Farndon is 3.5 miles away and lies very close to the border between England and Wales, the actual border is on the bridge which crosses the River Dee, and which separates Farndon and the village of Holt. The position of the border has moved several times over the centuries, placing Farndon alternately in Wales and England. Consequently, Farndon has a Welsh name- Rhedynfre. The English name is said to mean "Fern Hill", and has been recorded as Fearndune, Farndune, Pharndoon, Ferentone, Ferendon, Faryngdon, and Ferneton, since its first documentary mention in 924AD. There are excellent local services in the village including local shops, pub, doctor's surgery, church and primary school.
